A Former Breckenridge Countian Writes and Tells of That Beautiful Country.

Harvest Is Over, Crops are Good and The People Are Prosperous and Happy.

ABOUT RELIGION.

PHENIX, ARIZONA, May 24, 1894.-ED-ITOR BRECKENBIDGE NEWS :- As it has been some time since I have attempted to write any letter to the readers of your very interesting paper. I will make another aftempt, and I hope that it may be interesting enough not to find a place gins. in the waste basket.

I am now living in one of the best countries on the continent, where there is continuel summer and dry air and healthful climate, and with water can raise any kind of agriculturel product in large quantities. If you could see some of our alfalfa fields now and just look at the ricks of hay that has been cut this spring and the second crop nearly ready to cut again, you would be surprised. Now we can cut from four to aix crops per year, if proper irrigation is used, and from one and one half to two tons each cutting. Wheat harvest is nearly over and a good yield at that. Corn in many places tassled out. Barley cut. Irish potatoes good and have been in use for a month. As to peas, beans, onions, radishes, lettice and many other garden products, we have them fresh all the time, the year round. We have been using strawberries for over a month and apricots for the last two weeks. Grapes and figs will be in market in a short time. There is a great crop of ammons and peaches this year, in fact, we are having a good crop of all kinds this year. If you could just take a ride around in our valley and see the amount of cattle and horses on pasture this year, you would be surprised. This is the best year for ranchers that we have had for some time. The water is scarce in the mountains and feed is dried up very much. All of the cattle that are large enough for market are brought to the valley and put on pasture for shipment. Horses are cheaper here now than ever before, you can buy a good 1,000 to 1,200 pound horse, 4 to 6 years old, for $20, smaller for less.

A worn to Sirocco-I love to read his writings because they are put up in a good scholary style but I can't agree with him on a religious point of view. I believe in holiness of heart or sanctification. I will not attempt to give many readay. sons for my belief, I think there is one or two that is full suficient. "Christ atone for the sins of all man-kind." And of course he gave us a law and command ments to obey. He shed his precious blood to purify and cleanse us, and of course if we have been born again, or in other words, of the spirit and holy ghost we are cleansed, therefore, we are sanctified for we are Christ-like. If we are christians there are hundreds of passages of scripture to prove sanctification with, in fact, nothing to prove to the contrary. Now the passage saying "None good no not one" that is correct for it is said "We are conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity" therefore, we are not good until we are cleansed by the blood of the Lamb. Now a profession of christianity that does not cleanse in holiness of heart and sanctification I am doubtful off. I will write you another letter and give you the scripture on it, in the fu-X. X. X.

The Why and Wherefore.

There is nothing marvelous in the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla should cure so many diseases. When you remember that a majority of the disorders "flesh is heir to" are due to impure or poisonous condition of the blood, and that Hood's Sarsaparilla is an effective and radical blood purifier, the whole thing is explained.

Besides its blood purifying qualities, Hood's Sarsaparilla also contains the best known vegetable stomach tonics, diuretics, kidney remedies and liver invigorants, and is thus an excellent specific for all disorders of these organs, as well as for low condition of the system, or That Tired Feeling.

THEY SCRAMBLE AFTER IT .- A few days ago a prominent farmer from out in the county stepped into the News office and threw down a dollar, saying, "Please send me the News for this." He was informed that we thought he was already a subscriber, and if he did not get the paper regularly it was not our fault, for it surely left this office every Wednesday morning.

"I know that," the gentleman replied, and it comes to me all right, but-"Oh yes, we under stand now; you want to extend the date of your subscription." (Examining the mailing list) "Why, your subscription is already paid a year in advance, do you want it extended to two years?" "No, I want to pay for another subscription. You see-

"Oh, that's the way is it? We see what you want. You wish to subscribe for a friend and have the paper sent to him. To what address must we send

"No, you don't understand me yet. want the paper sent to my address-I want two copies. You see it is just this way at my house: There are six of us in the family and we take six papers. I go to the postoffice every Wednesday and I get all the papers out of the office at the same time. When I get back home, notwithstanding the fact that there are enough for every member of the family to have one to read, they all want the BRECKENEDGE NEWS first, and there is a scramble over who shall have it; and when one person gets it, he don't want to give it up 'till he has read it clear through. This is the only disturbance that we ever have in our family, and I am determined that it shall be stopped. I want two papers sent to me every week, and if these don't quiet the fussing and hard feelings, I will subscribe for sixone for each of us-You will let me have six for $5, won't you?"

The gentleman was informed that if two copies did not quiet the troubled Cloverport, Ky. and Kincheloe, Meador waters, that he could have six at his own & Co., Hardinsburg, Ky. price, an I he went out happy.

GREAT TRAVELERS, -Of all the animals, creatures or things that go upon the road, an egg-case seems to be the most prodigal, the most prone to wonder about, with the least certainty of getting back.

Every merchant who has had any experience in this line, knows that when he starts out a lot of new egg-cases that he has hardly one chance in a thousand of getting any of them back, even if he has them marked all over with his name

It seems to be the accepted theory that it is perfectly bonest for every man to steal as many cases as he can get his hands on, and for this reason there is a tool manufactured for the express purpose of scratching off the marks from the cases, that their own may be placed thereon. It is a knife like a drawing knife, with a very crooked blade and two handles

Properly speaking, there is but one lot of egg cases in the world and it is owned by the general public.

As an illustration, it is proper to mention the experiences of some Cloverport egg cases, which has just come to light: Some months ago Sulzers sent three new cases of eggs to private parties in Louisville. They were received all right and the empty cases started back. This was the last heard of them 'till one day last week, when a great big New Orlean's steamboat landed here. The sole object of her burning probably five dollars worth of coal in making the stop and getting under headway again, was to put off three dilapidated, woe-begone little

They were the identical prodigals which a few months before had left here for Louisville, brand-new and bright as dallars; but now they were perfect frights, hardly fit for kindling wood.

They had been shipped on the boat by a commission house at New Orleans La , and the dim marks and tags which they were covered with showed that while absent they had done service in M sapuri, Arkansas and Mississippi, and instead of the original paste-board packing they were half full of cotton seed.

A GREAT GUSHER.

A Gas Well, Near Tastoria, O., Is So Powerful That It Cannot Be Controled.

A phenomenal gas well was recently drilled by the Chicago Oil Co, near Fostoria, O.

The Chicago Record says the well is on the James Wallace farm in Hancock county. The drill had only rea hed the depth of 350 feet and the well had just been cased. The drillers heard the roar of gas as the drill tapped the reservoir, and ran for their lives from the derrick but none to soon, as the ponderous drill was hurled like a shot from a gun to the heighth of nearly 100 feet above the tree tops. The casing followed in quick suc cession and was scattered an I bent in a tangled mass. No sooner had the ponderous volume of gas given vent to its strength than it ignited from the fires of of fire shot up over 150 feet high. Enough oil is thrown out with the gas to make a lake of fire surrounding the well, and it is impossible to get closer than 100 feet to the burning well. The entire plant of the drillers including the engine and boiler is encircled by the fames and everything is a total loss.

the boiler near by and a steady volume

The surrounding land is boggy, and for a quarter of a mile surrounding the well in many places the gas is coming up through the earth with such force that ground and water are thrown to a height of ten feet or more and these places re semble boiling springs.

The water gurgles and dances from the escape of the gas fully a quarter of a mile away from the well. The entire woods is filled with the gas coming through the ground and people have left the place, fearing at any time that the entire vicinity may spring into a mass of seething flames. The roar of the gas can be heard for nearly ten miles and people are coming from miles around to see the Oil men, old in experience, declare that nothing like it has ever been known. It is in entirely new territory and is supposed to be a crevice or pocket which will soon blow itself out. At its present rate of speed it can never be brought under control.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass county, Iowa, and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine at that place for the past thirty-five years. On the 26th of May, while in Des Moines, en route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of diarrhœa. Having sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhora Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25 cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. The excitement and change of water and diet incident to traveling often | If You Are in Need produce a diarrhoa. Every one should procure a bottle of this Remedy before leaving home, For sale by A.
